Polkadots Software is proud to announce Southern Lithoplate, Inc. as a semi-exclusive North American Marketing Partner

Montreal, Canada - June 14, 2006 Polkadots Software, a leading prepress workflow developer, specializing in database driven workflow automation has appointed Southern Lithoplate, Inc, of Wake Forest, North Carolina USA, a leading CtP solutions provider to the North American News Market, as a semi-exclusive marketing partner.

According to Al Brunner, World-Wide Director for News Products, Polkadots Software is committed to developing and supplying cost effective, flexible, highly productive and automated database driven workflow solutions. "We leverage our experience and knowledge in news printing and prepress production to create solid solutions that do the jobs today's news printers and publishers require. At Polkadots, we develop unbeatable solutions, unbeatable performance, and unbeatable value. Combined with Southern Litho's focused dedication to the news market in particular, our total program offers superior workflow features with substantial value," said Brunner.

Southern Lithoplate will work with our customer partners to bundle the best workflow solution possible. According to Steve Mattingly, Southern Lithoplate Vice President Sales & Marketing, "We have three core products for our customers to choose from as they convert from their analog architecture to our new digital world. Polkadots people, products, and programs perfectly complement our commitment to provide our customers with superior choices at the market's best price value."
