RODGERS AND MCDONALD SWITCH TO SOUTHERN LITHOPLATE INC.
THERMAL PLATES.

Carson, California, January 30, 2009– Rodgers and McDonald has converted to the use of Southern Lithoplate Inc., Cobra®830 and Viper®830 thermal plates for their diversified printing operation. In order to facilitate the conversion, Rodgers & McDonald have installed two in-line Proteck 105 plate processors in with their existing plate-setters.

Desmond Regan, Prepress manager stated “we will achieve significantly lower operating costs by switching to Southern Lithoplate thermal plates. We have been pleased with the longevity of these plates, and we have been able to run greater than 300,000 impressions on our cold set press, and more than 500,000 impressions on our heat set press, both with excellent print quality”.

Steve Mattingly, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for Southern Lithoplate stated that “Rodgers & McDonald represents another outstanding example of a client taking advantage of the combination of quality and value delivered by our plates. These attributes are more important than ever in the difficult economic circumstances that exist today”
